From Prophecy to Reality

Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus has been dedicated to bringing the Pacific and Asian rim students a balanced academic, social, spiritual, and inter-cultural experience. BYU–HC actually began its 27 year history as the Church College of Hawaii. Over that time the school has had six presidents with the first, Dr. Reuben D. Law, being appointed by the Prophet David O. McKay on July 21, 1954, before the school had a specific location, faculty, or buildings.

Dr. Law was serving at Brigham Young University in Provo as Dean of the College of Education and was able to recruit many of the original faculty from applicants in Provo before coming to Hawaii.

Brigham Young had directed the purchase of 6,000 acres of land in and around Laie, Hawaii for $14,000 in 1865. This land was destined to become a gathering place of members of the Church in the Pacific.

In 1921, when President McKay was visiting Laie as an apostle on a world tour of the Church's holdings, he knew the school would be founded in Laie by a special vision. President Law was directed to establish the school in Laie after several surveys were made on Oahu.

Dr. Law made arrangements to utilize the mission home in Laie and other small buildings as a temporary campus while the new campus was under construction nearby.

Dr. Reuben D. Law

Tuition for the first year of college cost $75 and the school had an official enrollment of 223.

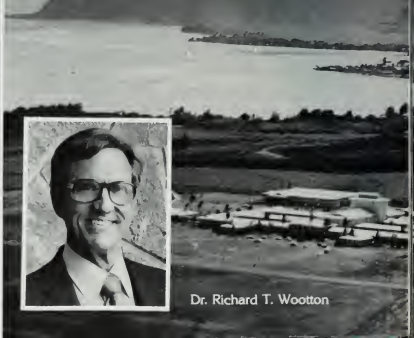
In three years the Church College of Hawaii moved into its new and present campus. Most of the construction was done by specially called "labor" missionaries.

After the new campus was dedicated by the Prophet David O. McKay on December 17, 1958, Dr. Law was released and Dr. Richard T. Wootton, one of the original faculty, was appointed president. During President Wootton's term the school went from a two-year junior college to a four-year degree granting institution.

Five years later, in 1964, Dr. Owen J. Cook, Assistant Superintendent of the Long Beach, California School District, was appointed the college's president after Wootton's release. During President Cook's administration ground was broken for the Aloha Center and the Ballroom. College enrollment drew students from every major island group and nation in the Pacific and Asian rim.

President Cook was succeeded by Dr. Stephen L. Brower, a professor of Sociology at Utah State University.

On April 13, 1974, the leaders of the Church announced that beginning with the term of Dan W. Andersen, President Brower's successor, the school's name would change to Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus.



Dr. Richard T. Wootton

During President Andersen's administration the school received its full ten-year accreditation.

With the advent of the 80's a new president was named. J. Elliot Cameron was appointed to the presidency on August 1, 1980. He was inaugurated in the newly completed George Q. Cannon Activity Center in early 1981.

In 1982, enrollment at the University peaked close to 2,000 students. Another first also occurred that year, as the institution accepted the enrollment of six students from the People's Republic of China.

President McKay said it best when he recorded in his journal his feelings when he knew there would be a school of higher learning in Laie. He stated, "We held short services in the school room in which all-American, Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese, Filipino-participated as though they had belonged to one nation, one country, one tongue."

"America and the Church of Christ will truly make all nations one blood. May God hasten the day when it is accomplished."

The Church and Brigham Young University-Hawaii Campus are dedicated to bringing its students an outstanding and rewarding university experience.

Dr. Stephen L. Brower

Dr. Dan W. Andersen

A Commitment to High Standards

The person who affiliates himself/herself with Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus selects a special way of life.

The mission of the University is to assist individuals in their quest for perfection and eternal life. The facilities and personnel provide a stimulating setting where commitment to excellence is expected and the full realization of human potential is pursued. Here students are taught the truths of the Gospel of Jesus Christ; receive a broad university education to aid them to think clearly, communicate effectively, and understand important ideas about their own and others' cultural traditions; and obtain quality instruction in the special fields of their choice.

The University is committed to provide students with a high quality academic experience, a righteous living experience, an intercultural experience, and an individual accountability experience.

Students who graduate from BYU–HC should be capable of competing with persons of comparable training in any location in the world.

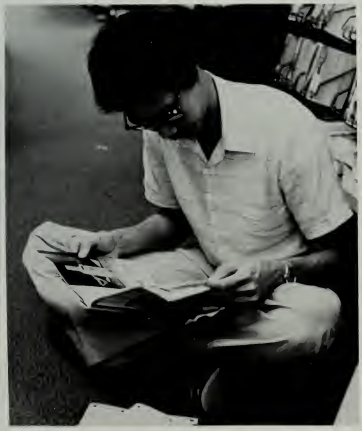
A Top Priority: Academics

Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus students are at school to get a high quality academic education.

Seven academic divisions offer students associate and baccalaureate degrees in such diverse fields as accounting, commercial art, electronic technology, English, education and biological science. Vocational certificate programs are also offered by the University, and they cover such areas as tropical agriculture, secretarial science and parent-child education.

Students attend small classes and have a chance to work with friendly and dedicated instructors. A major library and a host of other auxiliary services are available to students for academic enrichment.



Beautiful Hawaii

QUESTION: What do you get by being here?
ANSWER: The opportunity to lend yourself and your talents to the beauty of the land and the people. And, you get all of this....

Dynamic Teams Excel

Sports have been compared to the game of life, and at BYU–Hawaii Campus the players are out to win. Men's basketball, women's and men's volleyball, rugby, golf, and tennis are all featured as varsity sports.

Polynesian Cultural Center

The number one paid tourist attraction in Hawaii is the Polynesian Cultural Center. Established by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1963, the Center celebrates its 20th anniversary this year.

This showcase of Polynesian culture is a hands on experience for tourists and students of Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus. The visitor is able to not only watch the demonstrations and admire the art and dance of the islands; they can join in with the tour guides in dances, games, musical presentations, and frood preparations.

Students from nearby BYU–Hawaii Campus serve as tour guides, dancers, behind the scenes in the offices, and in all areas of physical management of the PCC. Their wages enable them to get a good education without leaving them in debt when they receive their BYU–Hawaii diplomas.

Religion is a Way of Life

Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. All students who attend the university are committed to living the high moral standards of the Church. Baptisms, marriages, worship services, and temple work are all a part of the spiritual life on the BYU–Hawaii Campus.

It's a Matter of Priority

Whether you want to study, eat, or check out designer jeans (or who's in them) at the bookstore, you can. It's all a matter of priority...well, need...or...time of day; you can do it. Just keep it balanced with a little extra weight on...you guessed it, studying.

NA HOA PONO 1983

Brigham Young University–Hawaii Campus

The diety of ancient Hawaiians prospered their islands, they believed, when the people lived close to his laws.

The Hawaiian words Na Hoa Pono stand for a people living close to God. Literally, Pono means "good, choice, or excelling" as well as "righteous." Hoa stands for "caring relationships" as in a family or a close people. Na expresses plurality.

Therefore, Na Hoa Pono represents a "close group striving to excell."

God will prosper those who exemplify Na Hoa Pono.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Wong enjoy dancing at the Holoku Ball.

Holoku Ball

The fourth week of September brought on an annual Hawaiian experience...good music, Hawaiian formal attire, a cool night breeze on the patio and that oh-so-sweet-companion- the Holoku Ball.

Aloha Week

At the end of September, Oahu celebrated Hawaii with Aloha Week. BYU-Hawaii Campus went along with the festivities by featuring a special Ron Miyashiro and Angel Pablo concert. The Fabulous Krush was an unforgettable experience as the week progressed to the highlighted events, namely the Holoku Ball and the Aloha Week Parade. The Polynesian Cultural Center came away with the President's Award for its colorful float.

Chinese Week

BYU–Hawaii Campus serves the Asian rim with students attending from almost every country. Chinese week celebrated the Moon Festival of China. The Dragon Dance, kung-fu, regional dances, and ethnic foods all came together the last week of September and splendidly portrayed the color, drama, and beauty of the Orient.

Carnival Spectacular

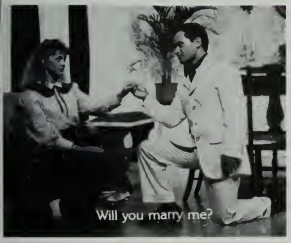
Everyone who came out to fall semester's Student Association sponsored "Carnival Spectacular" were in for a lot of laughs, good times and delicious food. A capacity crowd filled the auditorium and cheered on their favorite campus celebrities at the highly successful talent show while campus clubs entertained student palates by offering a variety of ethnic and not-so-ethnic foods to satisfy the taste buds.

Groucho meets Devo.

We're hooked on each other.

Halloween

Goblins, ghouls, ghosts and other outrageous charecters made their annual trek through the campus hallways, snack bar, and cafeteria during the school's Halloween celebration. Student costumes ranged from weird to fabulously funny. The annual Halloween dance was the highlight of Halloween.



Life With Father

The Fall 1982 drama production, Life With Father featured Kaleo Dela Cruz and Pauline Gillespie in the starring roles. Co-starring with them were Brenda Crawford, Alma Valdes, Amy Tompkinson, Marlene Smith, Richard Wolfgramm, Julie Gilliam, Josh Chase, Jennifer Parkinson, Ian Forrester, Roger Ewens, Kekoa Kaluhiokalani, Julie Packer, Miller Solliai, and Ed Parker.

First Runner-Up

"Exciting!" was Verna Tonga's comment when asked what it was like to win the Miss Na Hoa Pono crown.

Verna was one of six contestants who entered this year's pageant. She charmed the audience at the pageant as she gracefully danced to the soft strains of 'The Wonderful World of Aloha.'

Placing as finalists in the competition were contestants Deborah Chavers (First Runner-up), Joyce Sun (Second Runner-up), and Diane Kinghorn (Miss Aloha).

Through the two weeks of competition, the six contestants were judged on cooking, sewing, and speech. They were then judged on their talent, evening gowns and Sunday best during the pageant, which highlighted the event.

Over the years, the Miss Na Hoa Pono title has been associated with the holder being the ideal "righteous companion," even though the actual meaning of the words are "righteous people."

Verna's escort, Darren Kuehl skillfully adjusts her crown shortly after the pageant, which was held in the Cannon Center.

Wow! We won! Darren Kuehl breaks out in jubilation as Verna is announced the winner of the Miss Na Hoa Pono crown.

Hurricane Iwa

Hurricane Iwa, the worst storm since 1959 when Hurricane Dot hit the islands, devasted Kauai and Ni'ihau, and severly damaged the Waianae, Wahiawa and Nanakuli areas on Oahu during the Thanksgiving Holiday season. BYU-Hawaii 's suffering did not compare in magnitude to the above mentioned areas. Probably the worst part of Iwa for the campus and the surrounding Laie community was living without electricity for 5½ days.

Christmas

Christmas on campus was officially ushered in with the first annual Christmas Lighting Ceremony in front of the David O. McKay mural on Friday, December 3, 1982.

Santa arrived via a bright red fire engine, and turned on the colorful light display. Kids and grown-ups were treated to sweets and music at the event.

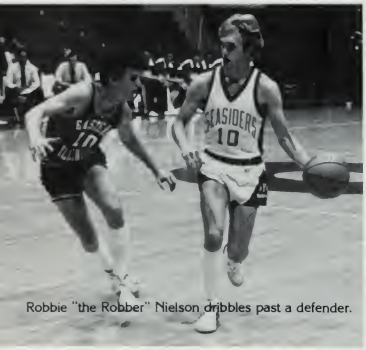
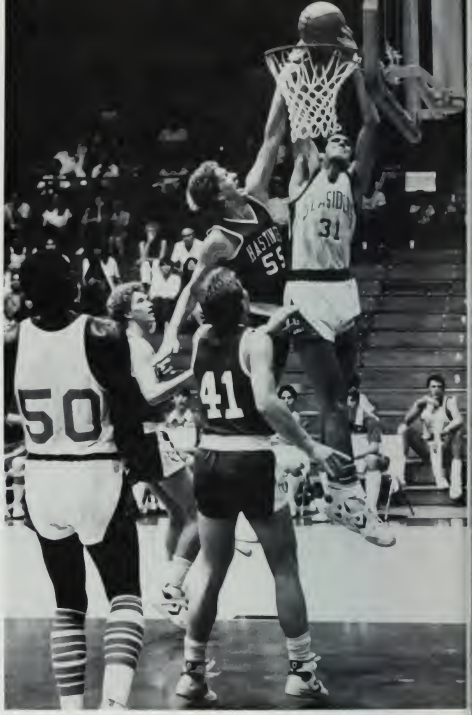
Basketball



Robbie "the Robber" Nielson dribbles past a defender.



Craig Bell demonstrates his worth with this thunderous slam dunk.

The 1982-83 basketball season was the best ever for the Seasiders. After a mediocre start this past fall, the Seasiders became serious contenders for the district title. The addition to the roster of Craig Bell was a major factor in the tremendous winning surge BYU–Hawaii put together in January.

Bell, a 6'11" transfer center from the University of Utah, and Elijah Jackson, a 6'6" forward transfer from Ricks College, were the "Chairmen of the Boards" averaging 20 rebounds and over 30 points per game this year.

The outside shooting of Brian McCleary, Scott Watson, and Olies Dockery kept Seasider opponents from sagging on defense. Robbie Nielson became the all-time single season assist king and thrilled Seasider fans with his hustle and stamina.

Having the best recruiting year in the history of the school, Head Coach Ted Chidester can be proud of his team's achievements.

The highly ranked and competitive BYU-Hawaii women's volleyball team fought their way into the hearts of their fans this season with strength, endurance and a strong desire to win.

Under the leadership of coach Jay Akoi, the "wahines" managed to come up with a long string of victories, which was enough to offset some of the losses, and put them into the national rankings. Towards the end of the 1982-83 season, the Seasider wahines were ranked 15th in the nation, and second in their district.

The wahines made a strong showing at the NAIA District playoffs, which were held in Oregon earlier this year.

Volleyball

Volleyball fans were not disappointed by the new beginnings of Coach Wilfred Navalta and his almost brand new team of ten recruits and two returnees.

The men held their own against highly ranked competition such as UCLA, USC, and the University of Hawaii-Manoa.

At press time the Seasiders ranked number four in Hawaii with one of the best back-court defenses in the state.

Pedro Valasco was named best all-around player with Tye McRae Tim Turner, Les Calles and Mark Yeager backing him up.

Quarterback Duane Clark led his team to victory.

Intramurals

Intramural action was red hot this year as ward teams from both BYU-Hawaii Stakes battled it out for championship titles in such diverse sports as football, volleyball and basketball.

The BYU-Hawaii Campus 8th Ward scored very big this past fall semester, as they won the titles in both men's and women's football, and in co-ed volleyball. The 10th Ward took the men's volleyball championship title.

The intramural program was successful for developing individual stamina and playing skills for all those who participated.

Rugby

BYU-Hawaii's rugby coach Inoke Funaki began the 1983 season with high hopes of winning th
Hawaii Rugby State Championship.

The Seasider Ruggers demonstrated their awesome strength and skill at every game played so fa this year. Each player was praised by Coach Funaki and Assistant Coach Emil Wolfgramm for the "winning spirit."

Outstanding in his flanker position, team co-captain, Willie Katene exemplified the over-all rugb athlete. Coach Funaki said, "Willie was especially effective in keeping the ball moving up the field an in position to score."

With this season's success Coach Funaki hopes to pit his team against the nationally ranke rugby squads of Berkeley and Stanford next year.

The Seasider Golf team improved greatly over last year's squad, but still came up empty handed as far as team victories were concerned in Hawaii State Intercollegiate Golfing League play.

Despite Coach Bob Owan's high expectations, the Seasiders fell short to league participants U.H.-Manoa, Chaminade, and Hawaii Pacific College.

The team will be looking foward to next season, and their first ever victory.

Jeff Page said it best: "As a cheering squad, we wanted to spur our teams on to their best performance, win or lose."

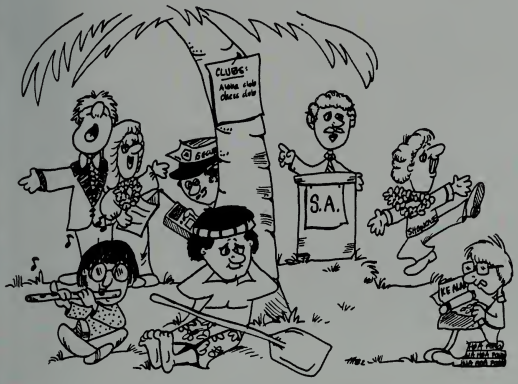
Scenes at PCC

Typical scenes that a visitor might see include folk art, a tree climber, Tahitian dancer and a village guide.

Other typical scenes include the colorful canoe pageant, native costumes and ethnic dances.

The people, the music, wow! People and music are two of the most essential elements that contribute to the success of PCC.

Students support their financial needs by working part time for the center in such occupations as press operators, canoe paddlers, tour guides and hostesses.



ORGANIZATIONS

Student Association

S.A. President Joe Freeman

S.A. officers Graeme Mearns, Jennifer Kjar, Joseph Freeman, Boyd Mooso, Kataraina Ormsby, and Hari Chetty.

The Student Association under the leadership of President Joseph Freeman provided the campus community with a variety of service and entertainment-oriented activities.

Members of the S.A. were responsible for the successful execution of this past year's annual Miss Na Hoa Pono Pageant, Homecoming activities and for the coordination of the recent studentbody election.

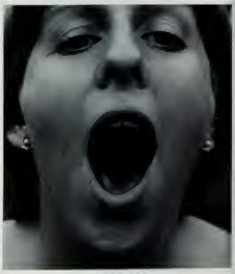
howcase Hawaii membership includes Juswan Tandiman, Tali Mau, Lehuanani, Weston Mills, Kimo Huddy, Harris, Carlyle Curtis, red Hinde, Dwight DuPont, Keith Nako, Edene Edwards. Front row, l-r, Leilani Dumaguin, Lisa, Rona Barenaba, Caraline, Verna Faune.

Spreading the message of brotherly love to island audiences everywhere, Showcase Hawaii has the unique ability to spread Hawaiian Aloha via their music.

Showcase Hawaii

The A Cappella choir under the direction of Dr. Jim Smith.

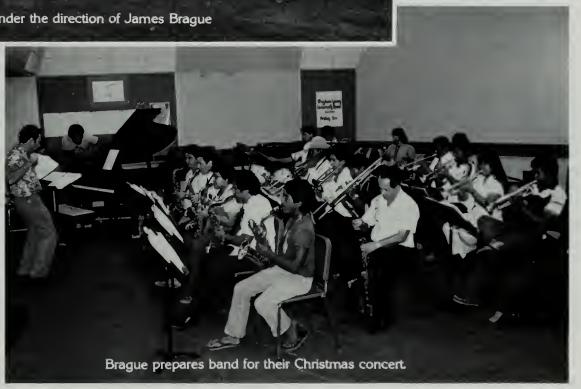
The Acappella Choir sings during Big Island tour in November.



Choir

Music provided by the A Cappella and Chamber Choirs enlivened the campus and the Laie communities. Both groups travelled to the neighbor islands for public performances at various high schools and LDS chapels. The groups, both directed by Dr. James Smith, sang a wide variety of music including classical, sacred, Hawaiian, and popular selections.

The Jazz Band under the direction of James Brague



Brague prepares band for their Christmas concert.

Band

The BYU-Hawaii Campus symphonic and jazz bands provided music lovers live instrumental sounds ranging from serious semi-classical pieces, peppy marches and fight songs to avant garde jazz and fusion-rock.

Throughout the year, these bands under the direction of bandmaster, Dr. James Brague, performed at various school functions including basketball games, concerts, and at an occasional dance.

Ke Alaka'i staffers Eric Hansen, Heidi Hansen, Grace Espina, Steve Tippets, Julia Lambert, Joyce Tippets, Robert Lawson, and Rob Olser were responsible for getting the news out on time to the public.

Ke Alaka'i

The Ke Alaka'i newsmagazine proved to be a vital source of timely news and information for the campus community. Published weekly, this important news service kept everyone informed on such events as campus elections, beauty pageants, academic breakthroughs, the latest available basketball scores and updates on campus concerns. Under the leadership of student editor Eric Hansen, Ke Alaka'i was able to maintain a state of balance in news reporting between the students, faculty and staff.

Wherever news was, dedicated reporters like Julia Lambert (above) made sure it reached the desk of editor Eric Hansen (right) so that he could put on the finishing touches and pass it to layout editor, Heidi Hansen (right, standing) for final production.

Na Hoa Pono

The Na Hoa Pono dates back 27 years to the first year of the University. Dedicated to graphically portray the school's events over the 1982-83 school year, the staff began functioning after Kent D. Sorensen was hired as a special instructor and editor for the yearbook.

Rob Olsen, the Publications department business manager, submitted an early proposal to staff a yearbook for 1983. However, the decision for producing the book was delayed until mid-September, 1982. Starting behind schedule, Sorensen selected Melvin Ah Ching and Elsa Villanueva as associate editors with Earl Millham, the University Relations' photographer, in charge of photography. Rob Olsen, editor of the 1978 edition of Na Hoa Pono, was appointed as special advisor. Publications director Ron Safsten oversaw the whole project.

Alumni Association

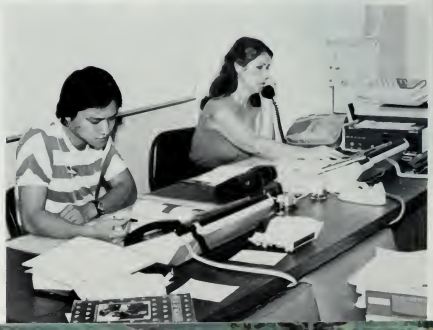
BYU–Hawaii Alumni Association, under the direction of B.J. Fuller, now serves more than 6,000 alumni through programs including Homecoming and Commencement. Alumni receptions and reunions held on BYU–Hawaii Campus and throughout the Pacific Basin also encourage alumni to remain in friendly contact with each other and the university.

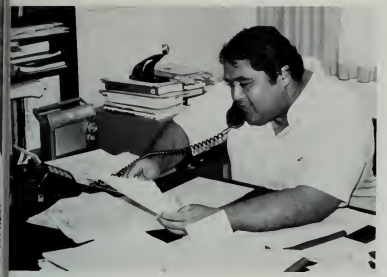
Maui alumni renew old friendships.

Telephone Services

With the installation of the Rotelcom system last year on campus, reaching out and touching someone within the campus community was just as far away as pushing four buttons.

Operators were able to answer and forward hundreds of more calls per day over the old rotary system. Telephone Services Director Sue Hiram feels the system has increased everyone's efficiency.

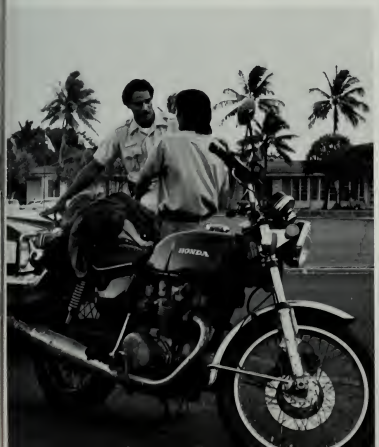




Security

Jeff Hiram and his fellow officer follow up on a security call.

Night officer mans security check station.



BYU-Hawaii's security force kept the campus secure by enforcing the many rules and regulations governing the premises. Directing and controlling the flow of incoming vehicular traffic to the campus, making sure that all the buildings were securely locked during the late night hours, ensuring the safety of students at dances and concerts, and providing a number of emergency services were all part of the security force's duties.

Samoan Club

Samoan students enjoyed a well organized club that served both themselves and others through activities that included gospel forums, club carnival, and cultural presentations on and off campus.

Club President Lokeni Lokeni and Vice-President Togia Siteine commented on the high morale of their club. Lokeni felt each club member benefitted spiritually and temporally by remaining in touch with their home island.

Tongan Club

The Tongans had one of the largest clubs on campus and one of the most active.

President Viliami Fotu spoke highly of his club and praised "their unique spirit of brother and sisterhood."

This year the club was especially proud of Verna Tonga, who was crowned Miss Na Hoa Pono for 1982-83.

Winter Semester Supplement
BYU-Hawaii Campus

Student Life

The Na Hoa Pono 1983 winter semester supplement salutes the variety of events, places, ideas and people that all came together here in the middle of the Pacific–a bridge between East and West: BYU–Hawaii.

Crowd cheers as Seasiders defeat Simon Fraser 67-42 in January.

Filimone Afu harvests bananas at farm.

Photographer drives TVA kids up the wall.

Not exactly Paul McCartney and Stevie Wonder.

Ke Alaka'i editor Steve Tippets; reporter Michele Holgate.

Tom Selleck is mobbed by adoring fans after Outriggers defeat the Seasiders.

Work, play, sport, and leisure is enhanced by the rich loam of existence-variety. A specific culture tends to formalize and homogenize certain ideas and traits. When people have an open-minded intelligence they can take those best qualities that they are exposed to and learn to love each other's differences.

The Na Hoa Pono captures on film those special moments when East and West meet and "make all nations one blood" as the Prophet David O. McKay recorded in his personal journal.

Life Goes On

Life on the 1983 campus has meant coping with the new jobs' policy, trying to defeat Chaminade's basketball team, experiencing Iwa's and Pele's wrath, enjoying the fruits of a very successful aquaculture conference, getting to see the latest "heart-throb" Tom Selleck, and many, many more events and activities from the mundane to the memorable.

Homecoming

Are we not men? We are Devo!

Homecoming 1983 climaxed with the crowning of Edene Edwards, a sophomore in Travel Management from Kekaha, Kauai, at the Homecoming Ball.

Other events included pie eating, jello snarfing, and dress-up contests, a mini-marathon run, dancing, voting, the annual parade, and of course, the cockroach race, in which the winning roaches were promptly squashed.

1983 Homecoming Queen

Ten contestants competed for BYU-Hawaii's Homecoming Queen title. Each contestant displayed her talents in the Homecoming Pageant which was directed by the 1981 Miss Hawaii Teenager, Sandra Sagisi.

Winner of the pageant was Verna Faune. The overall winner for Homecoming Queen was Edene Edwards, who was elected by popular vote the next day by the student body. Later that night, Edene was crowned by the 1982 Homecoming Queen, Leilani Dumaguin.

Edene felt that "participating in the contest was a turning point in her life."

Bye Bye Birdie

BYU-Hawaii's Craig Ferre along with students, faculty, staff, and Laie community members combined in a 38 member cast to entertain the campus with the hilarious foibles of love and teenage rock'n'roll star worship.

Nalani Redira carried the production with her singing and dancing as Rose. Other memorable performances were turned in by Julia Hatch as Mae Peterson and Kyle Millham as Hugo Peabody.

One member of the orchestra commented on all the hard work put in by the cast, musicians, director,and stage crews, "it was a rough week, but it was worth seeing it all come together. I honestly didn't think we could do it when we rehearsed until near midnight two days before the play opened."

SPORTS

BYU–Hawaii's 1982-83 athletic season will go down as one of the all-time best. A foundation of sportsmanship was established in basketball, volleyball, rugby, and tennis that will serve the university's reputation well.

Basketball, women's volleyball and rugby had successful seasons with the hoopsters winning 20 out of their 30 starts, and the ruggers outscoring nearly every opponent to become one of Hawaii's premiere teams.

Basketball fans packed into the Cannon Activity Center this year to set an attendance record of 28,000 for the season.

Elijah Jackson and Brian McCleary established themselves as two of the top men in the NAIA district. Jackson garnered All-District honors, and McCleary took academic All-District and All-American honors because of his excellent playing and high G.P.A.

The women's volleyball team demonstrated its prowessby racking up a winning season. The road to the nationals was cut short by the UH-Hilo Lady Vulcans who narrowly beat the Seasiders in the district finale. Hilo went on the capture the national title.

Rugby coach, Inoke Funaki, spoke of his rugby team as "the most fit team" he has ever coached. "The Seasider Ruggers will make it to the state championships in May," stated Funaki.

The men's vollyball team was in a building stage with most of its players starting their first season. Coach Navalta felt that the year "was an opportunity for growth" and that with more experience they should turn in a winning season.

The tennis team was organized late in the school year after a one semester delay. Coach Donna Chun was able to begin practicing with her team after the winter semester began. Of the 18 members, Sione Taufa was seeded as number one.
